Vaughan presented revisions to the posthumous degrees policy meant to simplify the process and provide more flexibility for awarding posthumous degrees
Key changes to the policy:

fFamily approval is no longer required to award a posthumous degree.

fThe requirement that a student must have been enrolled in their last semester before graduation has been removed.

fThe CAQ in consultation with the Dean of Students, determines whether the posthumous degree will be awarded.

MOTION: APC –It is moved to approve the revised Posthumous Degrees policy for placement in University Regulations and in University Catalogs.

DISCUSSION:

The phrases “reasonable progress toward degree completion” and “significant disciplinary incident” were written to be intentionally vague to allow the CAO and DOS to use their discretion when considering individual cases.

The policy as written covers students who may not be enrolled in classes at the time of their death (e.g., students who have taken leave of absence would be eligible).

President Feinstein thanked the committee for their work and is supportive of the policy as written.

VOTE: Approved by voice vote.
