

*Interpreter: Claims to Be Certified; No Reversible Error

<http://representingforeignnationals.blogspot.com/2008/11/interpreter_interpreter_for_victim.html>

*

A Tennessee Court has upheld the death penalty, after various claims of errors. One of these included the fact that the interpreter for a witness claimed to be certified but in fact was not. Because the defense had made no objection, and there was no other evidence that the fairness of the trial was undermined,